

Extra card 1: Shanghai forbidden / Re-roll all dice

Front

Rules of the game

Each player gets a “dirty tricks“-card “Shanghai forbidden / re-roll all dice”. The usual rules concerning “dirty tricks“-cards do apply: you may only play a “dirty tricks“-card after having rolled two dice and you may only play one of these cards per round. When playing such a card, you have to choose one of the two actions on the card. A played “dirty tricks“-card is then removed from the game, unused “dirty tricks“-cards score 1 extra point at the end of the game.

- “Shanghai forbidden”: None of the players may choose to “shanghai” until a player has to “shanghai” since he has less than two dice left in his supply. To remind both players, this card is placed beside the tavern together with the captain. The cards is removed from the game after the cards have been distributed.
- “Re-roll all dice”: The players takes both dice he has rolled together with all own dice he has placed onto cards in the tavern before the same round. Then he takes one of those dice back to his supply and places the rest onto the corresponding cards of the tavern. The card is then removed from the game.

Example: Bernd has added “1” and “3” onto cards of the tavern before. He rolls two “1”. Because he wants to reclaim the fourth and/or fifth card of the tavern, he plays “re-roll all dice”. He takes back “1” and “3” from the tavern together with the two “1’s” and rerolls those four dice. He rolls “2”, “4”, “5” and “6”, takes the “2” back to his supply and adds “4”, “5” and “6” to the corresponding cards in the tavern.
